RECEIVERSHIP FEE CASE SHOULD BE APPEALED

An appeal must be taken by attorney General, Secretary of the State, or the Board of Finance, to the Supreme Court, to have the receivership of the State Bank & Trust Company, dissolved. The receivership was appointed by Judge Langan in the fall of 1920, after the State Bank & Trust Company had failed. HARDING REIGN IS PROVING A SUCCESS.

The first year of President Harding's administration is nearly over. The people who chose him at the solemn referendum in the fall of 1920 are beginning to learn with some accuracy what manner of man they have elected to the presidency.

Without a doubt, it seems to us, says Public Service Magazine, that Harding will go down in history as one of our "great" presidents. He has not the dynamic personality of Roosevelt, but working quietly and constantly he has achieved results. The outcome of the limitation of armaments conference, even if every detail of the president's plan is not carried into effect, will be of probably greater effect on the world in general than was the conclusion of peace between Russia and Japan at Portsmouth.

Washington, as our first president, holds a high place in our history and always will. He was a great man and would have been a great president even if he had not been the first. One of his most famous utterances was against foreign alliances. But even this famous utterance is scarcely to be considered superior to President Harding's statement of our foreign policy:

"We harbor no fears; we have no sordid ends to serve; we suspect no enemy; we contemplate or apprehend no conquest. Content with what we have, we seek nothing which is another's."

Even Lincoln, the immortal did not in his Gettysburg address or at any other time utter a greater thought than the following:

"In somberest reflection the world's hundreds of millions who pay in peace and die in war, wish their statesmen to turn the expenditures for destruction into means of construction, aimed at a higher state of those who live and follow after."

LONG STRIDES TOWARD PEACE.

Peace in the region of the Pacific has been guarded against probable violation by the fact drawn up by the four principal powers at the Washington conference. Peace in Western Europe is practically assured by the promise of Great Britain to rush immediately to the aid of France in the event of another threat from Germany. It is understood that Italy and Belgium are also included in a four-power understanding regarding the future peace of Europe. Armistice day, 1921, may be celebrated as the date on which was inaugurated the first practical and effective movement to make the world safe against war, and President Harding is the man who appointed the day and issued the call to the nations to undertake that momentous work. The Cannes conference, from which has come the four-power European treaty, is in reality but another expression of the spirit of the Washington conference. It is the policy of the Republican administration not to interfere in the affairs of Europe, where the United States has no direct interest as it has in the Pacific, hence the conference at Cannes was no business of ours.

Nevertheless, the world dream of peace, materialized in part at Washington under the able direction of President Harding and Secretary Hughes, has found its European expression at the Cannes meeting.

PARTY LEADER PASSES.

In the death of Clarence B. Miller, secretary of the Republican national committee, the party lost an indefatigable worker, and the country a fine patriot who, as representative in congress for 16 years exhibited a brand of statesmanship of which his state, Minnesota, and the nation were proud. Miller was one of the best posted men on the Philippines to be found in this country. He was a graduate of his state university and made the honor fraternity of Phi Beta Kappa. "His work during the campaign of 1920 was prodigious," declares Chairman Adams, "and was of such a character as to give him a high standing among all members of the national committee and party leaders." Miller was 50 years of age and looked 40. His geniality and industry will be greatly missed by the national committee.

GIRL GAVE LIFE TO SAVE FIANCE

By Associated Press. GENEVA, Jan. 19.—Miss Gagnoni, a 20-year-old girl of Locarno, has just given her blood and then her life to save her affianced husband who had been seriously injured in an automobile accident. The physician declared that immediate infusion of blood was the only hope and Miss Gagnoni, against her parents' wishes, volunteered hers.

The operation was a success, both recovered health, but three weeks later the girl contracted pneumonia, attributed to the indirect result of loss of blood. The wedding had been fixed for Christmas day.

KENTUCKY EDITOR ON JOHN BARLEYCORN

At Musket Ridge, Kentucky, where the moonshine industry has been recently interfered with by federal officers, the newspaper there made the following comment:

"If we're going to stand for our women wearing knee-high skirts, tight form-fitting bathing suits and vulgar low-cut waists, and our young ones to dance the boll weevil wiggles, Texas Tommy, tango, bunny-bug and so on down the line, the men folks might as well have their liquor and the whole push go to hell together."

SITUATION IS IMPROVING IN THIS SECTION

Southern Nevada is promised an era of great prosperity in a mining way during the next few years. In fact, the whole state is going to benefit in a general way, and mining camps in all localities are showing a decided improvement as new development is instituted upon meritorious enterprises.

The numerous mining districts throughout Nye and Esmeralda counties are gradually taking on new life and by early spring there promises to be an influx of people, brought here as a result of capital being available with which to thoroughly exploit our resources.

It will require but a few months to prove up the Royston district with three shafts being lowered that are to have depths of 500 feet, the object being to prove the continuity of the ore shoots, the worth of that section as a permanent camp will soon be known. The fact that ore was found in an incline shaft at 520 feet on the Hudson property at a vertical depth of 200 feet warrants the sinking of these shafts in question. In the meantime many miners are developing, leases, and extracting good grade ore at shallow depths.

Hornsilver continues to gain in popularity, and the activity is gaining in momentum at a rapid rate. Numerous properties are receiving attention and lots of more than 100,000 tons are being reported with frequency. The Orinda mine has been proven to be a great gold producer and within the next few months the output promises to be heavy.

Goldfield is making ready to stage a "comeback." A big campaign of advertising, to cost in the neighborhood of $25,000, has just been started, and the attention of the investor in New York and the New England states is to be called to the possibilities of the former great gold camp. The world has ever known. There is a spirit of optimism prevailing at the gold camp, and not only will that town benefit as a result of the publicity that is to follow, but Hornsilver will derive much good as a result thereof.

In Tonopah the 1 1/2 miles continue their aggressive campaign of silver and gold production, and the shipments are to be kept up to the highest possible standard during the balance of this year, as well as many years to follow. The Divide is showing splendid form on a number of properties, and shipments from the Tonopah Divide, Gold Zone Dividend, Divide Extension, Beecher and Kernick will no doubt bring the district into great favor.

Many transactions of great interest to owners of property in outside districts are pending, and it is expected that they will be closed within a short time. This means that mine development on a broad scale will be attempted in these sections, which is almost sure to result in a number of substantial producers being developed during the year.

With the advent of good weather in the spring there promises to develop quite a little stir in the new camp of Argentine. That district is now covered with about 3 feet of snow, but nevertheless a number of properties are receiving attention in view of the fact that supplies have been taken in to carry the men through the cold period.

The Investor and the Income Tax

A 64-page book devoted exclusively to the income tax problem confronting the investor or trader in stocks and bonds. This book is condensed—written in simple, unobscured language—containing sections of the Revenue Act of 1921—regulations and rulings of the Treasury Department—findings of the United States Supreme Court, carefully prepared by a firm of Certified Public Accountants (N. Y.). All bearing on stock and bond transactions. It is written in question and answer form, illustrated with many specific examples. It will be issued in a convenient pocket size and will also include several pages of forms for listing your stock transactions. It is the book investors have wanted for years, and we will be pleased to send it to you or traders a copy without cost.
